

KNOWLEDGE OF THE CELESTINE PROPHECY

The Celestine Prophecy is a manuscript created in 600 BC. in Peru. The prophecy predicts a great transformation of human society in the last decades of the 20th century. The insights of the Celestine Prophecy must be understood one by one, and thus a new spiritual culture on Earth will be gradually formed. The original is written in Aramaic - the same language as the Old Testament. The manuscript is not supported by the official church because it thinks it undermines its foundations as interpreters of God's word. The real value of knowledge is not given by reading its content, but by the insight we experience throughout our lives.

THE FIRST REALIZATION it breaks through to the surface, like a feeling of restlessness, an inspiration that does not last and therefore leaves us dissatisfied, because we want it, but do not know how to keep it. All the ills of modern society can be attributed to restlessness and the search for this feeling. The first realization comes when we become aware of the coincidences in our life. These are happening more and more often and lead us to the opportunities we need for our development. This seems mysterious to us and excites and invigorates us, we get the feeling that some other intelligent process is taking place behind the scenes of our visible life. This feeling is not new, only the frequency of perception is increasing at this time, and our task is to consciously accept it. When the number of people with these feelings reaches a critical mass, the following insights will begin to emerge, leading to a cultural shift.

THE SECOND REALIZATION broadens our awareness of historical time and reminds us that we must consider the development of culture from the perspective of the entire millennium. It exposes our obsession and lifts us above it - above the idolatry of human technical progress. However, this period is the fruit of human maturation and should not be condemned, but understood. If we look at history after Christ, it can be divided into three basic periods of human civilizational development.

THE THIRD REALIZATION describes a new understanding of the physical world. People will learn to perceive energy that was now invisible. Scientific skepticism was necessary in its own way, as a response to religious dogmas and errors, but it often hinders the explanation of unmeasurable phenomena. Only quantum mechanics and A. Einstein's theory of relativity proved that what we experience as solid matter is actually a pattern of energy. This also destroys our belief about the spatial and temporal dimension. It is interesting that elementary particles can be affected by our expectation !!! This supports the theory of a unified energy field where energies flow between individual energy systems. Invisible energies are most easily noticed in the morning or in the evening, when we observe the plants without focusing our eyes on them. We can flow energy into plants, and later also into people, thereby significantly increasing their growth and resistance. Such plants give us significantly more energy as food - they only need our attention during growth. So the third knowledge is about energy fields. In physics, this will change the way it is measured, and they also explain levitation (Christ walking on water) and the supernatural powers of martial arts masters. Whether a person will perceive this energy or not depends on the diet. Carnivores will be mostly disabled.

THE FOURTH REALIZATION is an insight into the battle for power and energy. Conflicts between people stem from the need to rule and control others. In a conversation with another person, a person can be stronger or weaker, depending on whether he has dominated the conversation or not. This is called manipulation. It all revolves around finding a mode of control that will ensure superiority over the other. This is the whole reason for senseless disputes both between individuals and between nations. These relations are the most problematic in the relations between parents and children, because along this line, harmful patterns of behavior (theft of energy) are unconsciously transmitted from generation to generation. We crave energy because it fills us with comfort and a sense of security. The energy body of one person tries to take over the body of another. In this way, we harm ourselves and shorten our lives, but in the short term, winning brings motivation that encourages us to control others even more. When the individual achieves that the energy of the listeners flows into him, he expresses himself with great ease and his thoughts are crystal clear, he has a sense of power, but the gift does not last long, because people have limited energy. So, stealing energy is a result of feeling insecure and weak and feeling better when we get it. That is, the fourth realization exposes the great competition for energy and power. This period is now ending, as soon we will be able to consciously receive energy from another - inexhaustible source.

THE FIFTH REALIZATION links to energy is in everything. We derive it mainly from food. It is best to grow our own food and pay attention to the plants. When we eat, we must respect and taste it, so we pray before eating. Praying before a meal is not just a matter of gratitude, but a sacred ritual so that the body can receive energy. Behind the religious ritual of gratitude is therefore a way to absorb more energy from food. As you become more sensitive to the energies around you, you can absorb them without eating. Some places have more energy than usual, but there are certain places that suit your energy type. You have to detect such places and use them. You have to open up, connect with the energy and feel gratitude and love. There's no need to force yourself, just let it capture you. When you concentrate, e.g. on the plant, you have to arouse a feeling of gratitude, then respect comes and then love. When you achieve this, your energy field begins to expand. You also return energy to the plant, but this does not mean a loss, but an exchange that fills both. At the same time, the energy field of a person changes from dirty white to green and blue. The ultimate achievement of such a state is enlightenment, when your and the cosmic energy body merge. Then you also get a cosmic memory and an insight into the development of creation (evolution). The universe provides us with everything we need, if we only know how to open ourselves to it. However, at the very first contact with an ordinary person who vibrates at a normal lower level, we lose touch with the blissful state. The higher consciousness casts us out. Such merging is only a gift that the individual sometimes experiences, but does not have to permanently or willingly pass into this higher state. We must progress gradually to higher and higher vibrational levels - we are energized and growing - we must repeat this cycle.

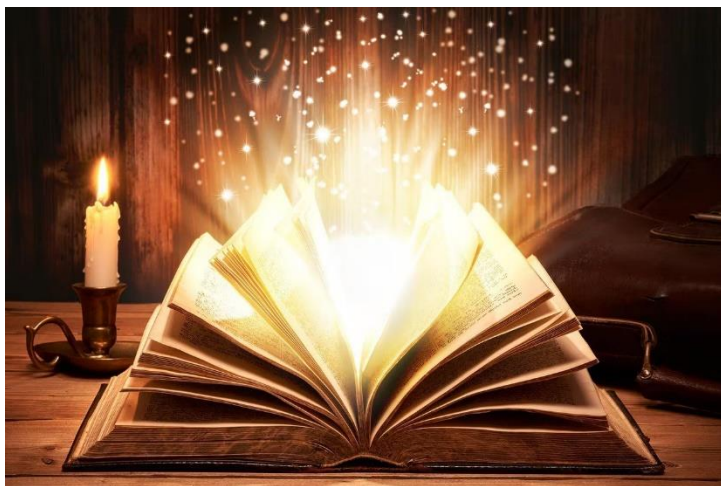

THE SIXTH REALIZATION is clearing up your personal drama of control. We need to go back in time, to our childhood, and find out how our drama of control was formed. Most family members are involved in it, especially the parents. We need to look at the family experience from an evolutionary and spiritual perspective and figure out who we are and what we need to do. Then the drama of control falls apart and we live real life. Everyone manipulates the energy of others. He can do this violently by forcing people to pay attention to him, or passively by instilling in them a sense of sympathy and curiosity. Threat is the most violent form of drama. It is also a very strong form of theft if someone keeps making you feel guilty for no reason. We all use these dramas of control, some of us change them according to the situation, but most of all we use the ones we were taught in early childhood. In the sixth realization, you can become aware of your role and mission. You can use the opposites of your parents as an orientation. Your task is to discover how to bring about the union of the seemingly completely opposite views and beliefs of the parents (eg, the worldly frivolity and indulgence of one and the spiritual development of the other.

THE SEVENTH REALIZATION deals with the process of conscious self-development, alert acceptance of coincidences and answers that the universe offers you. Bad dreams carry the most important messages. The seventh is about dreams. You have to compare the story from your dream with the story from your life. Dreams talk about things that we do not recognize when we are awake. Images of fear need to be banished as soon as they appear and the mind will create a positive thought. However, if negative images are repeated, they should be taken very seriously. Daydreaming is our guide during the day. These are some kind of intuitive guides that tell us where to go and what to do, and then events begin to happen that allow us to move in that direction. This is how we grow, come to new insights and live on a higher vibration.

THE EIGHTH REALIZATION teaches us that all mysterious answers are given to us by others. There are no random encounters. However, the people you meet don't always have the energy and insight to deliver the message they have for you. You have to help them by sending them energy. This is similar to projecting energy onto plants where you focus on their beauty. Asking for answers turns into a competition for energy, so don't get caught up in your control drama. The eighth realization also warns that your development can stop if you become addicted to another person. The eighth realization is about the use of energy in relationships between people, and it starts with children. They are the highest level of development of our evolution, and they need our energy for further development. Energy must always be available to them. The worst thing is if we correct them and thereby drain their energy through the drama of control. Therefore, we must always include them in the conversation and give them our full attention. The number of children is especially important, which should not exceed the number of adults, otherwise the adults get tired, and the children start competing for their energy and their time. The myth of large families is thus being destroyed. Children should learn from adults and not from their peers. Adults, on the other hand, must teach in a way that is suitable for the child's development, but without atmosphere and frivolity and untruths. So, it is necessary to tell the truth to the child in an appropriate way. If adults are joking, children need to know about it. The second chapter is the battle for supremacy in love relationships. Why does the euphoria of falling in love quickly turn into conflict. When two people make love, they subconsciously give each other energy.

They feel floaty and uplifted. In doing so, they disconnect from the energy of the universe, as they expect energy from their partner. This is quickly exhausted. At this point, the relationship devolves into a simple battle for supremacy. This comes from childhood, as we are not able to integrate our opposite sex within us. If we connect to the human source before we evolve, we block the flow of energy from the universe. Most of us have not yet solved this problem precisely because of the battle for energy already in childhood with our parents. We are still looking outside ourselves for the energy of the opposite sex. We are like half of a circle, and when we get a partner, we are a whole circle of energy, but with two heads that start to fight for dominance. So we have to fill the circle ourselves. Then we will create a superman as a couple and stay on the path of individual development. Until then, let's not fall into love at first sight, especially not with partners who are not open.

THE NINTH REALIZATION explains how conscious development will affect the culture of the third millennium. We will ensure that the population declines. In this way, we will be able to live in more energy-rich places, and there will be more of them, forests will grow, trees will be up to 500 years old, the means of living will be guaranteed, so there will be no more monetary exchange, no excessive pleasures or laziness. We will follow our intuition so we will always know what to do. Our operations will be coordinated. Manipulation will no longer be possible. Visions that were set too quickly and therefore utopian will come true - communism (Marx). We will abandon pollution and depletion of nature, feel what our mission is, so that our jobs and work will be more pleasant. There will be more free time for development, work will be automated. We will be paid for the insights we receive. We will understand the principle of giving, which means multiple returns. The manuscript explains many religions and will help them fulfill their promises. They all promise the perception of God within themselves, but they betray themselves when they take away the right to interpret God's will. The manuscript also mentions Christ as a man who permanently connected with God's source and became an example that this connection is possible.

Humans represent the pinnacle of evolution, which started from simple matter to plant and animal species. First we fought for dominance physically, then mentally. Only now do we realize that we are ready for conscious development. As the energy rises, the vibration of the atoms in the body increases and we become lighter, more transparent and invisible to beings who remain at a lower level of development - this is probably what happened with the Maya. In this place we will begin to cross the border between this world and the world from which we came and to which we return after death. Conscious passage is the way that Christ showed us. He transcended death and crossed the boundary between the physical and spiritual worlds.

The essence of THE TENTH REALIZATION lies in the understanding of spiritual rebirth on Earth from the perspective of other dimensions and in the realization of the true nature of intuitive flashes. These glimpses show us our possible future, which would best fulfill the path and task we set before birth. The more aware we are and the better we are in contact with ourselves and with divine energy, the less often we deviate from the path and the faster we progress. We find contact by focusing inward and connecting with divine energy. Then our vibrational level rises and we can perceive intuitive flashes more clearly. If we intensify this, we enter a new area of life, a higher level, where we can see other souls and help each other with their messages. We enter the world to which we otherwise travel after physical death. Human culture and knowledge are evolving. Individual opinions are dogmatic, but truth is dynamic. The joy of life lies in letting go, searching for your own truth and following coincidences that give us a clearer picture of the goal we set before entering the physical body, i.e. before each new birth into the material world.

THE ELEVENTH REALIZATION is connected to a mythical region in Tibet called Shambhala. Tibet and Tibetan Buddhism were largely unknown in the West prior to the beginning of the 20th century. The name itself, however, was reported as early as the 17th century, by way of Estêvão Cacella, the Portuguese missionary who had heard about Shambhala (transcribed as Xembala), and thought it was another name for Cathay or China. Cacella in 1627 headed to Tashilhunpo, the seat of the Panchen Lama and, discovering his mistake, returned to India. In Tibetan Buddhist tradition, Shambhala, also spelled Shambala or Shamballa, is a spiritual kingdom. Shambhala is mentioned in the Kalachakra Tantra. Shambhala is ruled by the future Buddha Maitreya. The Shambhala narrative is found in the Kalachakra tantra, a text of the group of the Anuttarayoga Tantras. Kalachakra Buddhism was presumably introduced to Tibet in the 11th century, the epoch of the Tibetan Kalachakra calendar. The Kalachakra tantra prophesies that when the world declines into war and greed, and all is lost, the 25th Kalki king Maitreya will emerge from Shambhala, with a huge army to vanquish Dark Forces and usher in a worldwide Golden Age. This final battle is prophesied for the year 2424 or 2425 (in the 3304th year after the death of the Buddha). Thereafter, Buddhism would survive another 1,800 years.

Two pages from a mysterious old document predict that something important will happen in the second decade of the twenty-first century. Perhaps it is another prophecy of the end of the world - another in a long list of false doomsday prophecies... Or perhaps the world's obsession with the end has revealed a hidden inner realization that we are witnessing more and more often - that something better will always be born. In order to understand the meaning of the message that the old document brings to humanity, the heroes of the story embark on an exciting search for its remaining parts. As the insights are revealed to them, they meet different people with whom they discover the power of truth and the bond of God together and open themselves to the perception of unity. On the path of spiritual knowledge and revelation, they have to face powerful political forces and religious extremists who want to use the knowledge for their own ends. THE TWELFTH REALIZATION combines the best of what different religious traditions teach and shows the way to truth and peace. Life has never been so exciting, he says, and despite all the problems we face, an infectious message spreads from person to person, a message of truth in everything we do. It won't be the end of the world. We are at the beginning. In the morning of the new world!
